*Communion can be administered as you would normally do it following the main presentation or incorporated into it. If it is following the main presentation it is recommended that the pastor of the congregation lead it as would normally be done. Another option to consider is setting up Communion stations that include the elements from the Passover Table (i.e., fresh parsley, bitter herbs/horseradish, charoseth/apple mixture) in addition to the bread and the wine/juice. However, if you do this, consider how to best execute it in a timely and efficient manner.

*To increase audience participation, a popular option to consider is pre-packing individual boxes that include all of the essential Passover Seder elements in them. Included in the box is:

- White Grape Juice Box (Purple is the preferred color, but white is less risky in the case of spillage)
  - Apple & Eve brand sells white grape juice boxes
- ½ Piece of Matzah Bread (in a plastic baggie)
  - Cases of matzah bread are sold in grocery stores or on-line through various suppliers
- Sprig of Fresh Parsley pre-dipped in salt water in a 2oz. plastic cup w/ lid*
- Prepared (not creamy) horseradish in a 2oz. plastic cup w/ lid*
- Charoseth (see head table instructions for recipe) in a 2oz. plastic cup w/ lid*
- Napkin
- Small pastry size boxes (8" x 5" x 3") can be purchased at www.papermart.com

*These items should NOT be unrefrigerated for more than 2 hours prior to the service

***Please note that Communion would NOT need to be incorporated into the service if you choose to use the box method or if this is being done in a banquet format******
